THINGS TO KNOW

JOE PANTORNO, SPORTS EDITOR

It doesn't always have to be pretty if it gets results. A defensively gifted French side, with just the right amount of attacking flare, downed Croatia, 4-2, in the 2018 FIFA World Cup Final on Sunday afternoon from Moscow. Les Bleus are now two-time winners of the most coveted trophy in sports, their first coming 20 years ago when they hosted the competition. For more, head inside.

METRO.USDJOKOVIC ENDS TITLE
DROUGHT AT WIMBLEDON

I Novak Djokovic proved conclusively he remains one of the biggest beasts in men's tennis by outplaying South African giant Kevin Anderson to claim a fourth Wimbledon title on Sunday. The 31-year-old put two years of turmoil behind him to beat a battle-weary Anderson 6-2 6-2 7-6(3) on a sweltering Center Court and add a 13th Grand Slam trophy to his bulging cabinet. It was clear what it meant to the Serb as he ended a two-year Grand Slam title drought by getting his hands back on the trophy he also raised in 2011, 2014 and 2015. "I had many moments of doubt and didn't know if I could compete," said Djokovic, who retired in the quarter-final last year with an elbow injury that required surgery this year. "It's my first Grand Slam final in a couple of years and this is the best place to come back. It's very, very special." Even more so because his young son Stefan watched as he was handed the trophy – although he was not old enough to be allowed to sit through the two-hour, 19-minute final. "I was visualizing, imagining this moment of him coming to the stands, cherishing this moment with my wife and me and everyone."

CHICAGO POLICE RELEASE
VIDEO OF SHOOTING

2 Chicago police on Sunday released body camera footage of officers shooting dead a black man as he reached for his concealed handgun, hoping to quell two days of violent and peaceful protests that had branded the incident a case of police brutality. The shooting on Saturday triggered violent clashes that night and more peaceful protests on Sunday in the latest in a string of police killings that have at times sparked nationwide demonstrations. Chicago had its own high-profile case leading to unrest in the 2014 police shooting of 17-year-old Laquan McDonald, who was holding a knife when he was shot dead as he walked away from police. Officer Jason Van Dyke was charged with the murder and is awaiting trial. In this weekend's incident in the city, police shot and killed Harith Augustus, 37, while attempting to apprehend him on a sidewalk, the body camera video showed. As the man attempted to evade police, his T-shirt is pulled up, revealing a holstered handgun. Police opened fire as he reached for the gun.

US, N. KOREA TO RESUME
SEARCH FOR REMAINS

4 U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo said that talks on Sunday between U.S. and North Korean officials to discuss the return of remains of U.S. service members killed in the 1950-53 Korean War "resulted in firm commitments" and that there would be a follow-up meeting on Monday. It was the first time in nine years that U.S. and North Korean generals held talks. The two sides met on the inter-Korean border and agreed to resume joint field activities to search for the remains of Americans missing from the war, Pompeo said in a statement.

"Today's talks were productive and cooperative and resulted in firm commitments," he said. The repatriation of U.S. remains was one of the agreements reached during an unprecedented summit between President Donald Trump and North Korean leader Kim Jong Un in June. Working level meetings will begin on Monday to coordinate the next steps for the repatriation of remains, including the transfer of those already collected in North Korea, Pompeo said. The Pentagon has said North Korean officials have indicated in the past they have the remains of as many as 200 U.S. troops.

AT LEAST SEVEN KILLED IN KABUL SUICIDE BLAST

5 An apparent suicide blast close to a government ministry in the Afghan capital Kabul on Sunday killed at least seven people and wounded more than 15, officials said, in an attack claimed by Islamic State. The attack, which targeted civil servants leaving work in the evening rush hour, was the latest in a seemingly unending series of blasts against civilian targets in Kabul and other major cities including Jalalabad, which has seen three major attacks in the past two weeks alone. "Apparently a suicide bomber detonated his explosive vest at the gate of our ministry," said

Fraidoon Azhand, a spokesman at the Ministry of Rural Rehabilitation and Development. "The target was our staff who were leaving to their homes," he said. Islamic State said in a statement carried by its Amaq news agency that one of its suicide bombers detonated a jacket packed with explosives amidst employees of the Ministry of Rural Rehabilitation and Development in Kabul while leaving work. It quoted an unidentified source as saying that 60 people were killed or wounded in the attack, adding that two French citizens were among the wounded.

On eve of Russia summit, Trump calls European Union 'a foe'

The meeting comes days after 12 Russians were charged for hacking Dems.

On the eve of his meeting with Russia's Vladimir Putin, President Donald Trump rattled allies once more by labeling the European Union a "foe" with regard to trade.

In a pre-summit interview with CBS News' "Face the Nation" on Sunday, Trump lumped in the EU with China and Russia as U.S. economic adversaries. "I think the European Union is a foe, what they do to us in trade," he said.

Donald Tusk, president of the European Council, replied on Twitter using one of Trump's favorite stock phrases.

"America and the EU are best friends," Tusk wrote. "Whoever says we are foes is spreading fake news."

Trump and Putin will meet on Monday in Helsinki for their first stand-alone meeting since Trump took office in January 2017. Trump departed for Helsinki on Sunday evening after spending the day playing golf at his private club in Scotland.

Trump and his aides have been working through the weekend to soften expectations for tangible results from the meeting.

"I go in with low expectations," Trump told CBS in the same interview. "I'm not going with high expectations."

John Bolton, Trump's national security adviser, said in an interview with ABC's "This Week" that the United States would not be looking for "deliverables" and that the meeting would be "unstructured," beginning with a one-on-one session between the two leaders.

"It isn't a summit," U.S. Ambassador to Russia Jon Huntsman told NBC's "Meet the Press."

"It's a meeting. ... This is an attempt to see if we can defuse and take some of the drama, and quite frankly some of the danger, out of the relationship right now."

The meeting comes just days after 12 Russian intelligence officers were charged by a U.S. federal grand jury for hacking the Democrats ahead of the 2016 election.

With that in mind, a senior House of Representatives Republican told CBS's "Face the Nation" that Trump should ask Putin in Helsinki which airport the Russian hackers will be extradited to for being taken into U.S. custody.

"Tell us where you're going to extradite those folks," said Rep. Trey Gowdy, who chaired a raucous House investigative hearing on Thursday that highlighted bitter, partisan divisions within the U.S. Congress over a probe of Russian election meddling that has clouded Trump's presidency.

The Helsinki summit, which comes at one of the most crucial junctures for the West since the 1991 fall of the Soviet Union, has alarmed some NATO allies who fear Putin might seek a grand deal that undermines the U.S.-led transatlantic alliance.

During last week's NATO summit in Brussels, Trump repeatedly criticized members for failing to spend more on defense and openly questioned the alliance's purpose.

The top Democrat on the Senate Intelligence Committee, Mark Warner, said he was worried about Trump being alone in the room with Putin, without his national-security aides. "We know that Trump doesn't do a lot of prep work for these meetings. He kind of goes in and wings it," Warner said on NBC's "Meet the Press." "I really would feel much better if there were other Americans in the room."

Friday's charges against the 12 Russian officers alleging they hacked Democratic computer networks in 2016 represented the most detailed U.S. accusation yet that Moscow meddled in the election to help Trump.

The president has repeatedly said the investigation into Russian election meddling is a "rigged witch hunt" that makes it hard for him to do substantive deals with Moscow. He has denied any collusion by his campaign with the Russians.

Today's summit in Helsinki between the president and Putin comes with little expectations, at least according to Trump.

Why set the bar high? You'll only fall short and leave people disappointed.

Donald Trump made his share of missteps on his way into today's one-on-one with Vladimir Putin in Helsinki, the one-on-one part being only one of them. But the usually boastful American president certainly made no grand promises.

"I go in with low expectations," he assured CBS News' Jeff Glor, before saying exactly the same thing a slightly different way: "I'm not going with high expectations."

Now, that's some Trumpitude! No goal is the one goal that anyone can achieve!

Jon Huntsman, the U.S. ambassador to Russia, tried to help his boss — the president — further dampen expectations by insisting the get-together with Putin isn't even a summit. "I've heard it called a summit," Huntsman said on NBC's "Meet the Press." "This is a meeting ... really the first time for both presidents to actually sit across the table and have a conversation."

But Trump being Trump, he immediately went on Twitter saying the not-a-summit really is a summit, even employing a trademark Trump capital S. "Unfortunately," he typed, "no matter how well I do at the Summit—" blah, blah, blah.

Surely, there's a grand strategy in here somewhere. It's just that no one has been able to find it yet. "He's been very nice to me the times I've met him," Trump told reporters last week in Brussels, previewing his Putin face-to-face. "I've been nice to him. He's a competitor. ... He's not my enemy. And hopefully, someday, maybe he'll be a friend. It could happen."

Got it? Didn't think so.

But when Glor asked Trump to identify America's "biggest foe," the European Union was the first name off the president's lips.

Before Russia. Before China. Even before the news media, who he would soon be tweet-slammings again as "indeed the enemy of the people" along with "all the Dems."

So, no. Trump won't grill Putin on Russia's hacking plans for U.S. midterms in November. He won't demand Putin back off in Syria, where Russian forces are making a catastrophe even worse. And, no, he won't demand the extradition of 12 Russian Intelligence officers just indicted by special counsel Robert Mueller for trying to hijack the 2016 presidential election and quite possibly succeeding.

Expectations are low.

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers

“Don’t Get ANY Surgery Until You See This...”

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It’s Best “Treatment Formula” For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going to be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it’s complex. In other words, it’s not a simple, easy fix.

But I’m sure you already know that. Or you wouldn’t be reading this.

That’s the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It’s amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

While I can’t give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated ) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD “Treatment Formula” A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW...

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these “gel injections” without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patient. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here’s What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our “Treatment Formula.”

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what’s going on and what is your best course of action... step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what’s going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I’m out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

'Les Champions' France downs Croatia, 4-2, to win second-ever World Cup crown

Watch parties for Sunday's Cup final were citywide.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

For the second time since 1998, France is the World Cup champion after defeating Croatia 4-2 in the Final on Sunday from Luzhniki Stadium in Moscow, Russia.

Les Bleus have a brilliantly-organized defense and the attacking genius of Antoine Griezmann to thank for the title. Griezmann played a major part in both of France's goals, his free kick redirected in off the head of Croatia's Mario Mandzukic before his penalty re-established his side's lead just before halftime following Ivan Perisic's equalizer.

A pair of goals in the second half from Paul Pogba and Kylian Mbappe further secured the title of world champions for the French.

This was France's third-ever appearance at a World Cup Final, all coming in the past 20 years. It is the most of any country during that stretch. Its lone title came in 1998 as hosts before losing to Italy at the 2006 Final in Germany.

That defense was immediately put under pressure as Croatia's exhibition of a high press ensured it saw plenty of the ball in the early stages of the match, a strong start from a country making its first-ever appearance at a World Cup Final. France though countered with all 11 of its players behind the midfield giving Croatia little time to find that final fatal ball near Hugo Lloris' goal.

Just like it did against Belgium though, France came up with an opener through a set piece as Griezmann's free kick from 30 yards out glanced off the head of Mandzukic and past Danijel Subasic in the 18th minute.

It was the first own goal ever scored a World Cup Final.

Croatia found itself in a familiar situation as it was the fourth-consecutive match at this World Cup that it conceded the opening goal.

It answered swiftly as Perisic recorded his fourth goal of the tournament when a trio of Croatian headers fell to the midfielder just outside the French box. After one touch created some space for his thunderous left foot, the Inter Milan man thundered home a strike past the outstretched Lloris to draw things level in the 28th minute.

Video assisted referee allowed France to restore its lead just eight minutes before the break when a review deemed that Perisic handled the ball off a corner. It was Griezmann that came up big again, coolly sending Subasic the other way on his penalty that was tucked into the bottom-left.

Griezmann scoring for France is a good omen as Les Bleus were unbeaten in 20 matches when the Atletico Madrid man scores for them.

The second half evolved into a wave for Croatian pressure as play was constantly housed in the French half. Not only did it have to contend with a staunch French defense while trailing, but also a pitch invasion as three fans ran onto the pitch after a French counter-attack almost resulted in a goal from Mbappe in the 50th minute.

But it was France that doubled its lead as the counter came through in the 59th minute through Pogba, whose first shot was initially blocked at the top box before he sent a left-footed curler past a rooted Subasic.

Five minutes later, Mbappe continued to cement his status as a bona fide star with his fourth goal of the tournament to build France's cushion to three. Mbappe became the first teenager to score in a World Cup Final since Pele in 1958.

That goal turned out to be much-needed in order to keep France's advantage a comfortable one after Lloris gifted Mandzukic with a goal. While fielding a back pass, the nonchalant keeper's pass deflected off the foot of the onrushing Croatian attacker and into the back of his goal in the 69th minute.

Pussy Riot-led protesters invade pitch during World Cup final

The World Cup final between France and Croatia in Moscow was briefly interrupted when three intruders affiliated with anti-Kremlin punk band Pussy Riot ran onto the pitch before being hauled off by stewards.

According to one of the pitch invaders, who were dressed in police-style outfits, they were detained by police at a station near Moscow's Luzhniki stadium where the match took place.

Three of Pussy Riot's original members were jailed in 2012 for staging a protest against Russian President Vladimir Putin in a church and the group have since become a symbol of anti-Kremlin direct action.

In the second half of the match, three people wearing white shirts with police-style epaulettes, black trousers and police hats ran out onto the pitch from the area behind the French goal. A fourth person tried to run onto the pitch but was tackled on the sidelines.

The three people were able to run about 50 meters, dispersing in different directions, before stewards wearing high-visibility jackets tackled them to the ground and then dragged them off the pitch.

The match was halted, but resumed about 25 seconds later. A witness at the stadium said he had seen police escorting the pitch invaders out of the stadium grounds.

Olga Kurachyova, a member of Pussy Riot who was detained, said she could not talk further because police were trying to take her mobile phone away from her.

Moscow police issued a statement saying that three young women and a young man had been detained after running out on the pitch during the final.

The pitch invasion was the first significant security lapse in the five-week tournament that has won host Russia widespread praise for their good organization and efficiency.

In a post on the Pussy Riot Facebook page, the group said the pitch invasion was intended to bring attention to what they said were human rights abuses in Russia.

They alluded to Oleg Sentsov, a Ukrainian filmmaker jailed for 20 years in 2015 after being found guilty of setting fire to two offices in Crimea, including one belonging to Russia's ruling party, after Moscow annexed the territory from Ukraine.

In the Facebook post, Pussy Riot said their demands include freeing political prisoners, freedom of speech on the internet, freedom to protest and allowing political competition. Photographs of the pitch invasion indicated that the pitch invaders did not include the three Pussy Riot members who were jailed in 2012 for performing in the church.

Please clear the stairs in a rapid fashion so I can get on with my day and you can continue to stand in inconvenient areas in the comfort of your own home. The Citi Urbanspace Challenge will give three aspiring chefs a free booth at a fall outdoor market — and an even bigger opportunity to the grand prize winner.

eva.kis@metro.us

Opening a restaurant in New York City is a terrible idea — any chef will tell you that. But that's not the only way for chefs to get their food into people's hands thanks to the rise of outdoor food markets, and the largest player in the al fresco food business Urbanspace is making the dreams of three culinary entrepreneurs come true with the Citi Urbanspace Challenge.

Aspiring restaurateurs can submit their pitch for a "creative, fast-casual restaurant concept" that would fit into an outdoor market like Urbanspace now through July 23 at noon. Three finalists will receive a coveted spot at one of Urbanspace's Fall 2018 pop-up markets: Mad. Sq. Eats, Broadway Bites or Garment District.

When those markets

Win a spot at an outdoor market like Broadway Bites in the Citi Urbanspace Challenge. ALL PHOTOS PROVIDED wrap up, one winner will be chosen in November based on an online vote as well as the recommendation of an expert panel including restaurateurs, influencers and journalists. The grand prize is a customized booth at Midtown food hall Urbanspace at 570 Lex, where they'll cook rent-free for three months beginning January 2019 thanks to funding by Citi.

"The cost of being in one of Urbanspace markets is a very small percentage of what it costs to open a brick-and-mortar, independent restaurant," says Eldon Scott, president of Urbanspace. "We have many chefs who can be in business in a matter of a few months with guaranteed traffic, and if for some reason the concept isn't right, they can change it without having sold the farm."

More than just a free start

But money isn't everything. Being part of a market like Urbanspace means the all-important exposure, of course, but there's plenty more that a fledgling business can learn. "The markets act like an incubator for chefs," Scott says. "They absolutely learn from their neighbors about how to manage fast production during the rush, how to adjust their menus and pricing."

Besides providing a prime location and a booth, Urbanspace also handles a lot of the services small businesses need like accounting, attorneys, graphic designers, food safety experts and marketing.

How to succeed at an Urbanspace market

Securing a spot at one of its markets has led to brick-and-mortar success for several businesses: Mr. Bing got its start at the Garment Street Holiday Market in December 2015, Bushwick pizza mecca Roberta's got its foothold in Manhattan at Mad. Sq. Eats, and getting into Urbanspace Vanderbilt catapulted Ovenly from Greenpoint's cult cake favorite to six locations across the city.

So what does it take to be successful at an Urbanspace market? "Keep your menu simple, pricing reasonable, and get the food out fast," advises Scott. "If you can have a ticket time of less than a minute with a great priced item and manage your line with happy customers, you will be a rock star!"

The life and career of Robin Williams, as told by his long-term manager

The new HBO documentary "Robin Williams: Come Inside My Mind" premieres tonight.

GREGORY WAKEMAN
Gregory.Wakeman@metro.us

The death of Robin Williams on Aug. 11, 2014, sent a shockwave of sadness across the world.

Every fan of cinema and television had been impacted by Williams' captivatingly kamikaze comedic routines, which sparkled with an energy and humor that immediately made people fall in love with him. But it wasn't just comedy where Williams excelled, as his dramatic work was just as stellar, too. Lest we forget, he won the 1997 Academy Award for Best Supporting Actor for his performance in "Good Will Hunting."

The upcoming HBO

documentary "Robin Williams: Come Inside My Mind" provides a probing and emotional look at the actor and comedian's life and career. We recently chatted with Williams' long-term manager David Steinberg about just that.

As an executive producer, what did you want to achieve with the documentary?
I managed Robin for 40 something years. For the last 30 of those me and him would speak once or twice every day. We would travel together we would work on his comedic material together, we were very, very close personally as well as business wise. I thought that it was really up to me to complete the cycle of my relationship with Robin, and doing the definitive piece on his genius. I told HBO I wanted to explore

Williams influenced a generation of performers. BORSARI/HBO

Feet Hurt? Bunions? Hammertoes? Heel Pain?

Platelet Rich Plasma Therapy (PRP)

A new approach for treating Tendon Injuries for the Achilles, Tendonitis and Plantar Fasciitis (Heel and Arch Pain)

Take The Foot Health Checkup

- My toenails are streaked, discolored and thickened.
- The sides of my toenails dig into the skin and hurt.
- I have a large bump behind my big toe (or little toe) which is always red.
- I get an extremely painful "corn" in the area of my third and fourth toes when wearing shoes.
- My toes aren't straight—they are all cocked-up, bent and hurt.
- I have painful calluses on the ball of my foot which keep building up.
- I have corns on my toes which get thick no matter what shoe size I wear.
- The bottom of my heel hurts all day, but it's worse when I step out of bed in the morning.
- I have cramps in my legs which always happen when I walk the same distance.
- My ankles are swollen most of the time.
- My feet are always dry and itchy—sometimes they itch.
- My feet just hurt all over when I stand or walk a lot.
- I have numbness, burning, infection, persistent pain, skin rash, or open sores.

where that genius came from, because I thought that would be interesting for generations to come. And they agreed. It was important to me that the focus wasn't on the end of Robin's life, but the very creative part of his existence and his contribution to, not just American humor, but international humor.

Talk about Robin's transition from comedy to drama. How involved were you in that?

I know that we discussed the direction of his career. We had a policy of, when he was doing "Mork," we limited his television appearances. He wouldn't really do any others, I think he did a "Tonight Show" every now and then. Let's not forget that Robin was a trained actor at Julliard. He wanted to do more than just comedy films. Robin really enjoyed acting. He loved working.

How did he evolve as a performer then?

Robin was a visitor from another planet. He was dropped in here, and people were privy to the conversations going on in his head, because he had them out loud. People spend their time thinking what they want to say. Robin spent his time saying what he wanted to say. He was very unfiltered. But he really hated ... let me say it this way. Robin had these gloriously twinkling blue eyes and never an ill thought towards anyone. Robin didn't attack people, he attacked stupidity and greed and dishonesty. And what came into his head came out of his mouth, but along the way, he managed to create and bring so much knowledge to it. I have never known anyone as well read as Robin on so many subjects. Never. He could talk about medicine, nuclear medicine, war, politics, injustice, he was as well versed as anyone I have ever known on a variety of topics. It was a remarkable journey that 40 something years I spent with him.

"Robin Williams: Come Inside My Mind" debuts tonight at 8 p.m. on HBO.

Breaking the cycle of hustling drugs to hustling in the real estate business

The CEO of Tulsa Real Estate Fund tells us how he turned his life around.

patrick.king@metro.us

How do you know that it is time to make a change in your life? Furthermore, even if you are given a sign — has your life veered too far in the wrong direction to ever truly course correct? Jay Morrison, the wildly successful CEO of the Tulsa Real Estate Fund, knows that it is tough beating the odds when the chips are stacked against you because he has to overcome a lifetime of hardships to reach the top.

A three-time felon and high school dropout, Morrison grew up in a poverty stricken household in northern New Jersey filled with looming threats of physical and emotional abuse. He may not have known at a young age how he wanted his life to turn out, but what he did know was that he would do anything to improve his situation. So, at the age of 15, he began to sell drugs on the streets.

"I grew up with an edge and a desire to make it out of my environment," Morrison remembers. "One of the closest things in my environment was the street corners. It's where we saw most guys become successful. You didn't see too many business men from where we were from."

Following down a path into the drug world led Morrison to three different felony arrests and was eventually sent to prison for three years to life at the age of 18. He was let out on parole after this third arrest and eventually found advice from a mentor, Pastor Antwon Thomas of Plainfield, N.J., who begged him to apply for a job with his wife who was a processor at a mortgage company. Morrison was hired as a loan officer and quickly found success. But it didn't last too long as his first bump in the road in his newfound career sent him back out onto the streets selling drugs.

Breaking the cycle

Morrison was out on the streets early one morning when he finally had an epiphany that changed his life. "Where would I be when I was 30 years old?" he asked himself. All of his life he had looked up to guys on the corner as success stories and he had been born into a longline of drug dealers — including his grandparents and even his mother. But now as a highschool dropout and three time felon, that story seemed like one that would never apply to his life.

"My mother sold drugs. I come from that culture and I wanted to believe that one day I could make it in that world. For the first time, I had no more confidence in that plan working out for me," he says. "I asked myself what else can I do? And my challenge was to myself: Are you a hustler, businessman or just a drug dealer? I reflected on what I knew other than drugs and the only other thing I kind of knew and had success in was mortgages and real estate."

After proposing this question, he left the drug game for good to pursue his real estate career. Over the next decade, Morrison has become a success story in the real estate world and is now the CEO of the wildly successful company, The Tulsa Real Estate

Fund that helps everyday people invest money — as low as $600 — into properties that the fund manages to understand the power of owning property.

Morrison believes that anyone who has the pure ambition and knack for the hustle can turn their lives around and redirect their hunger just like he did.

"It was all ambition spawned out of my circumstances," he explains. "Drugs was just one vehicle that I chose." Aside from his burgeoning business, Morrison has also started the Jay Morrison Academy — an online real estate school and mentorship program offering affordable wealth management education — and is a motivational speaker who preaches the virtues of hustling in the real estate world over dealing drugs.

Vergne secures Formula E championship at NYC ePrix

The Frenchman wrapped up the 2017-18 championship with a fifth-place finish on Saturday in Red Hook.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

The weekend of the French began right here in New York on Saturday. Before the national soccer defeated Croatia at the 2018 FIFA World Cup Final, Jean-Eric Vergne secured the 2017-18 Formula E driver's championship with a fifth-place finish in the second-ever New York City ePrix in Red Hook.

And it was on Bastille Day.

Lucas di Grassi won the first of the two races, which took place on Saturday and Sunday, but Vergne of Team Techeetah Racing's finish ensured that there would be no final-race dramas this year as the lurking Sam Bird finished ninth.

It wasn't easy, though. Due to a technical infringement, better known as a software malfunction in the Team Techeetah vehicles, Vergne and his teammate Andre Lotterer were excluded from qualifying and had to start Saturday's race from the back of the pack.

Entering the NYC ePrix, Vergne held a 23-point lead in the driver's standings over the second-place Bird of DS Virgin Racing, a poor showing in Zurich, Switzerland allowing the Englishman a chance at pulling off an impressive comeback.

The fact that Bird, who had been the only winner in the history of the NYC ePrix, sweeping both races last year, only made Vergne's standing atop the leaderboard all the more uneasy.

Bird would begin the race in 14th and quickly move into the top 10, which are the only spots that award points to the field. However, Vergne and his teammate Lotterer conserved energy in their electric cars brilliantly. While a majority of the pack faded, the two shot up the ranks and by the 16th lap, Vergne passed Bird for 10th place.

His opposition's aggression might have helped open the door for him to move up so quickly.

"I enjoyed the race, but obviously, it was very tough," Vergne said. "Some drivers were quite hard and overconsumed energy to try and not let me by. It was actually really complicated, a real fight unlike in Zurich. Today, the drivers were tougher."

Lotterer also helped, moving up into the top-five before allowing Vergne to pass with ease, ensuring that his first-place perch in the standings could not be lost.

"I cannot believe it, what a crazy race," Vergne said. "I have waited the whole season for this, but when I crossed the line I honestly did not know I had won. My engineer told me, 'I guess we've done it,' so I said, 'what do you mean?' Then Lotterer went past me and clapped so I knew something was up. When I found out, I was speechless."

Vergne's title is his first since 2010 when he was racing in the British Formula 3 division.
